Editor's Message

Being selected as the magazine's editor for the month of May makes me feel honoured. It's a wonderful chance for me to highlight the brilliant minds of the students of our school who worked hard to make this month's magazine a success. I've always wanted to collaborate with the brilliant editorial staff.

I want to express my gratitude to the Junior and Senior Wing Schools Coordinator Ma'am for their assistance. A big thanks you to all of our instructor teachers for all of their advice and assistance. I'd also want to thank all of my colleagues who contributed to their publication.

The magazine for this month has pages dedicated to inspiration, information, pleasure, and creativity. The following students made contributions this month: Shaswat Chauchan V-A, Advika Sharma VI-B, Prerita Barthwal IV-A, Viramyia Mishra V-A, and Suhani VII-A were responsible for the creative page. Mannat Gupta VIII-A, Kanila Pal VIII-A, Perena Bhartwal VIII-A, Aaryansh Tomar VIII-A, and Atul Singh Bagori worked together to create the stunning front page. Shiksha, Vani Wilson, and Anshul Diyundi created the current affairs page. Urvi VII-A, Anshika VIII-A, and Anushka VIII-A gathered the news from MBIIS. Varun Bisht, Shreya Bhatt, Sahil Bisht, Priyanshu Raturi, Ridhima Thapa, Ankita Jugran, and Xinyi Jiang (XII PCM) all presented articles on values. Last but not least, the effort put out by Vaishnavi VIII-B, Darsh VI-A, Darhita Chauchan VIII-B, Ayotsana VI-A and Aksamna Batool VIII-B was evident on the last page of Fun 'o' logy.

The magazine is an accomplishment overall, and I, Aastha Tyagi VIII-A the Editor of this month's magazine am glad to have been a part of it, I would want to say as my final statement. To ensure its success, the entire crew worked really hard and gave it their all.

I thank everyone and wish our readers to be intrigued by May month magazine.

THE PROMISE

There was a very rich man named Raj Malhotra, who had a multinational company. As he was alone in this world so he involved himself in charity. One day when he was coming from his company back to his home he saw a beggar setting next to his home. The sky was full of fog, roads were filled with snow and it was 9 PM. He puts down his car's window and looked at the beggar. The beggar was shivering with cold and had nothing on his body. Raj felt really sad on seeing him in this situation, so he came to the beggar and started talking to him. Raj asked the beggar "aren't you feeling cold here without any clothes in this cold weather". The beggar replied "No, I am used to these types of situations." Raj promised the beggar To bring one comforter for him and told him to wait. Raj entered his home and got busy in some work related to his business. While doing his work he felt sleepy and goes to sleep. Next morning when he woke up, he remembered the beggar on, seeing the comforter placed on his couch which he took out for the beggar.

Then raj went out in search of the beggar. "RAJ FOUND HIM DEAD". His whole body was pale and he left a note for Raj. He mentioned in the note:

" When I didn't have anything I had the power to fight the cold because I was used to it. But when you promised to help me I got attached to your promise and that took my power of resisting."

Moral - " Don't promise anything if you can't keep your promise. It might not mean anything to you but it could mean everything to someone else."

A Bond Between Me & My Dog

We are living, breathing things on this earth, we give and take love, but do we give equal love to those who really need it? We've been loved once in a lifetime, we all are creatures but all creatures are treated differently.

Here's a story about me and my beloved pet 'Sandy'. One of the most petted animal 'dogs'. I was waiting eagerly for my mother who promised me a gift as a pet dog on my birthday. I still remember it was pouring cats & dogs that day. I excitedly went to my mom and became a little sad when I didn't find my gift, but then she showed me a little bag, 'Sandy' was so little that even the bag looked big for him. I was so delighted to have my own pet, we literally grew up together & I was 4 years old when I got him and we had slight difference in our heights. I bathed him, brushed him, fed him and slept with him. As I was the only child at home I used to play with him all day, we were best of friends, we used to always be together and our bond grew stronger year by year.

Bhoomi Mewar, 12 PCB

As time passed I grew taller and he grew older, he wasn't energetic like before. I didn't have time to play with him as i became busy with school & the friends i made there. He also became more calm and slow, one day I had to go and Sandy wasn't well, I told my mother that I would like to stay at home and take care of him but the event was very important so I had to be there. When I was leaving he looked at me with his gloomy doe eyes and he wanted me to pet him and it felt like he was telling me not to leave him alone. I petted him and hugged him but I didn't know that it was the last time that I will love him. When I returned back it was all silent, I called for him, but he wasn't there I was panicking and ran to my mother crying in a soaring voice, when we searched for him we found him in the field at the back of our house. I picked him up in the same way as I picked him up for the first time. Giving love to anyone doesn't cost or lose anything. Animals are the only ones who can make you happy when you feel down. They will jump on you and boost up your energy when you are tired, they will give you millions of thoughts when you look into their eyes. Animals are one of the most special things God has sent to us.

We Are Because They Are. 'Give love, Share love'.

Culture of Uttarakhand

Uttarakhand, also known as devbhoomi, has been the centre of religious and spiritual knowledge for periods. The history and culture of Uttarakhand are deeply connected with religion and separated far and wide. Numerous societies and races attend them with peace and harmony. Utmost of the state is divided into two regions named Garhwal and Kumaon. It is also home to Jaunsaries, Tibetan deportees, Boksas, among others. Uttarakhand has a 'pahadi culture'. Folk cotillion, music and carnivals are a huge part of Uttarakhand culture. The land is blessed with the beauty of the Himalayas and ancient tabernacles. The typical hindu carnivals similar as Diwali, Holi, and Navaratri are celebrated them with great zeal. Along with this, the Garhwali culture has its carnivals similar as Harela Parv, Phooldei, Basant panchmi, Khichdi Sankrant, Ganga Dussehra. Harela Parv is celebrated in Kumaon as the first day of the monsoon. It is followed by the jubilee bhिताuli, celebrating the seeds sown by Kumaoni women at the crop time. Igaas is another Garhwali jubilee; it is celebrated many days after Diwali and is also known as Garhwali Diwali. The history behind Igaas is that the men of Garhwali families who worked in the Army couldn't come off duty on Diwali. So, they would go home many days after it, and their families would celebrate Diwali each over again to celebrate their safe homecoming. Folk cotillion and music Uttarakhand religious gatherings would be deficient without folk songs and dancing. So the people hold their culture in high regard and celebrate together. Some of the folk songs are Jagars are a form of religious immolation to our ancestors and their souls. Epics, similar as Mahabharata and Ramayana, are recited. It is said that the God comes down to earth and cotillion along with the people. Other forms of folk music are Mangal geet that are played during marriage observances. Food Most Garhwali cooks revolves around factory-grounded particulars that can be grown in the mountains. They also need nutritional food that will keep them warm during the harsh downtime months.

Nature

Everything is Nature,
 God gave us this feature,
 Birds fly in the sky,
 And mountains are so high.
 Trees are green,
 And water is so clean,
 We are not kind to it
 We are only harming it
 But it never betrays,
 It always give us right way.

Mother

Suhani, VII A

You make me feel loved,
 You always cheer me up,
 Sometimes I get angry,
 But still you are my Buttercup.
 You always give me company,
 With you I am always happy,
 You always help me
 And you give me bravery.
 Mom you are the best in the world.
 And I love you more than the world.
 You make me joyful
 And you are very beautiful.

Wind

Your breezy strokes are touching me as if I would fly,
 The feeling which I get after waving hair seems like a beautiful lie.
 Your invisibility makes me curious
 as if you are a miracle,
 But your breezy magic is nothing less than throwing away an emotional obstacle.
